It seems you waited most your Life to come down with all these feelings
So close around you
They blame you, they blame you again
And it seems I found you more times than life will allow,
I break the pieces down,
You build them back up somehow

And still they blame you, they blame you again
They won't be sure this time
And when they need you,
They won't believe you,
With the stars so bright, they burn straight thru the
night

I never felt so clear now,
Without you in me,
Insecure from all these endings
And I found you,
So they blame you again
They won't be sure this time, oh, this time

And when they need you,
They won't believe you,
With the stars so bright, they burn straight thru the
night

And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright, we drove straight thru the
night

And when they,
And when they need you, they won't believe you
With the stars so bright, they burn straight thru the
night
And when they need you, they won't believe you,
With that stars so bright, they burn straight thru the
night
And that's when they need you.
