You made me lie to you about my running around You wouldn't believe me when I told you of a new love I had found
So I just pretended that there never was anyone else
You made me lie to you, please lie a little yourself

Forget what I told you I was just fooling myself And those words I spoke to you were lies I couldn't love anyone else
Why did I lie to you about my running around?
Maybe you could see through me and not let this thing
get you down

I wouldn't blame you but I trust you more than myself
You made me lie to you please lie a little yourself
Why did I lie to you about my running around?
Maybe you could see through me and not let this thing
get you down
