(Written by Barry and Maurice Gibb)

If you never rode West of the Arizona border
You can turn the other way boy but you never get far You be living a lie if you wanna see the wonders of the age

You must follow the evening star.

Chorus:

Evening star

Shine a little Heaven

On a stranger with no dream

Where you are.

You can see the loneliness I mean and if I gotta fight

I can never play somebody else's game

I can follow the evening star

Starlight, you never need somebody else's name

If you follow the evening star.

Have you ever known a sunset when the sky's on fire

How you end another day boy you've been searching too far

Like the desert I rode on any memory is lost in the restless wind

I just lie beneath the evening star.

Chorus:

Evening star

Shine a little Heaven

On a stranger with no dream

Where you are.

Have you ever held a woman in the California moonlight

Put your money on a good night if you never been there

It's a sight for sore eyes if you wanna see the wonders of the age

Making love beneath the evening star.

Chorus

Evening star

Shine a little Heaven

On a stranger with no dream

Where you are.

You can see the loneliness I mean and if I gotta fight

I will never play somebody else's game

I can follow the evening star

Starlight, you never need somebody else's name

If you follow the evening star...
