I wake up beside you and Im nearly weeping
There is screaming in panic
My nightmare again
They're hurting each other with fingers like claws
And I hug you so hard
That you're gasping for air
And everything you owned well end up with nothing
All that surrounds you is slow just like me
Everything you want Im hiding still waiting
For a beautiful day when Im gone
Then you'll be a star
I wake up beside you with liquor on my breath
And this room is so hot
While Im cold as ice
I quiet a headache with aspirin and water
I guess that we dream about
Things we forgot
And everything you owned well end up with nothing
All that surrounds you is slow just like me
Everything you want Im hiding still waiting
For a beautiful day when Im gone
Then you'll be a star
