The pale blue light along the coast
Is one of those I miss the most
There was that day you touched my hair
And said "my love, it's so unfair..."

It's too late to sit in the sun
And lately we've just begun
'cause it's too late to tell anyone
That lately we've just begun

But winds in life that draws the pier
Seems very far when you are here
There was that day you took my hand
And said "my love, that's where it ends..."

It's too late to sit in the sun
And lately we've just begun
But it's too late to tell everyone
That lately we've just begun

It's too late to sit in the sun
And lately we've just begun
It's too late to tell everyone
That lately we've just begun

The pale blue light along the coast
Remains the one I like the most
There was that day you touched my hair
And said "my love, it's so unfair..."
