Hold my hand up a little tighter
I'm afraid of losing grip
Pull me in a little closer
Feel the beating of my chest
It feels safe here I can cry here
I'm so glad you understand
That there are moments that I need you a little more

Lean your head up a little closer
I want no one else to hear
There are things I wanna say that Are meant only for your ears
It feels safe here I can tell you although you already know
That I have moment when I need you a little more

I could use your arms around me now holding so tight
And know that is still nice to hear child everything's alright
There's never been a time when you weren't standing next to me
But there are moments when I need you a little more

Show your face up a little stronger
I recognize that you're my friend
Could you hold me a little longer?
I get so lonely now and then
It feels safe here I can stay here
Although I know I must be strong Even through those moments when I need you a little more

I could use your arms around me now holding so tight
And know that is still nice to hear child everything's
There's never been a time when you weren't
standing next to me
But there are moments when I need you a little more

Yes there are moments when I need you a little more
