I remember you waking up early,
You were singing to me.
Oh so lonely, I remember you feeling
What's this life to be free

Have I become your favorite stranger

You were always the sun in my universe
blowing it all away
You were always the light that held my verse
blowing it all away,

Slapped in the face by the hand of emotion
Singing songs in return
A kiss on the lips from the fire I was burning
Who will teach, who will learn

Have I become your favorite stranger

You were always the sun in my universe
blowing it all away
You were always the light that held my verse
blowing it all away,
You were always the light that held my verse

Are you sure that you're getting enough,
Space
Are you sure that you're getting enough,
Stranger
You were always the sun in my universe
You're blowing it all away
You were always the light that held my verse
You're blowing it all away,

You were always the light that held my verse
Blowing it all away.
