

Kevin Rowe

"The Broken"

Visit "The Broken" on MotoLyrics.com

There are so many broken hearts
So many lives are torn apart
Looking for something, looking for reason
Finding escape in all the wrong places
Getting battered and bruised, blinded and shaken

The world that we live in. This broken nation
People want love, but they don't know where it is
Father release your new generation
Who'll lead the lost and broken home

So many homes have broken down
Too many children's hopes fall to the ground
The homeless want freedom, and someone to feed them
But we just walk by and we pretend we don't see them
The broken need love and that love can't be broken

The world that we live in. This broken nation
People want love, but they don't know where it is
Father release your new generation
Who'll lead the lost and broken home

There are children in the sand
Would you take them by the hand
Lead them to the promised land

Visit Kevin Rowe page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.