(verse 1)

Back down memory lane, i began as my mothers bright idea

A short time later, they all watched in aw and all of a sudden i'm here

She was also my father, so i hardly got to see her I was afraid of the dark, but it was only because i was a believer

(hook)

I was told when i was two years old, she swore that i would be special

I took a good look around and thought don't worry momma the citys gonna help you

(chorus)

georgia, you will always be home to me
georgia, i belong to you and yes you belong to me when they ask me where i'm from, i'm proud to say that i'm your son

(verse 2)

I'm moving on, using mostly dirt roads untill i find my way

Camboltin road, can't forget cascade or the memoral mlk

Theres something about atlanta, that doesn't ceese to amaze me

Oh after all , you even raised the people that raised me

(hook 2)

And my old man is burried there can't be mad now why bother

And you have been my mother nature also my god father

(chorus x2)

georgia, you will always be home to me
georgia, i belong to you and yes you belong to me when they ask me where i'm from i'm proud to say that i'm your son
