I should be happier, but I can't get anymore happy
Left turns, right turns run through my head
As your thoughts turn and twist mine I feel like a runaway train, but you stay with me as the tracks
I spilled my cup of emotions on your back, but you carry the weight with me

And the time on the wall runs into the teens
I feel the thought of you slip between There's a shade of you in me which you color
regularly
Regardless of what happens my eyes will never fail to leave yours

I have brush-burns because by now I live on my knees
Tell me where your heart's set and I'll adjust mine Don't be shy. Cry a little You've laced your heart through my hands
Now it hangs over my head
I don't want anything, just tell me what you need

And the time on the wall runs into the teens
I feel the thought of you slip between
There's a shade of you in me which you color
regularly
Regardless of what happens my eyes will never fail to
leave yours

Do you sleep every 1:30 AM?
Do I cross your mind before the day ends?
I'm jealous of how much I love you I'll act as your pillow or sheets
You relief in confusion
Your warmth in cold
Your pink in blue
Your 5 in 13
And my heart in our love

Take your sleep in mid day
I don't mean to wake you
Tell me when your eyes open

Because Iâ€™ll spark your smile and light your heart

And the time on the wall runs into the teens
I feel the thought of you slip between Thereâ€™s a shade of you in me which you color
regularly
Regardless of what happens my eyes will never fail to
leave yours

Take your sleep in mid day
I donâ€™t mean to wake you
Tell me when your eyes open
Because Iâ€™ll spark your smile and light your heart
