Hey in town
wake up now, we've got something
For who needs satisfaction
Sick and tired of the same questions
Never answered with a sense

Inner-vision, time has come
Inner-vision, there's something wrong
With what they say to me

Marching out
With no sound, we've got something
For who feels lost and wild
Victim of one more denial
Motivated with no sense

Inner-vision, time has come
Inner-vision, there's something wrong
With what they say to me and I hate

If every man whose flame's too bright
Is doomed to feel so much the pain
If every time I close my eyes
I always see the things I blame
If every second of your life

You gotta fight someone in vain
If every chance to end this strife
Is lying as if I could be tamed

In the streets
For your feat, we've got something
For who wants some more action
Ready to unleash a reaction
To a world without a sense

Inner-vision, time has come
Inner-vision, there's something wrong
With what they say to me and I hate

If every man whose flame's too bright
Is doomed to feel so much the pain

If every time I close my eyes
I always see the things I blame
If every second of your life
You gotta fight someone in vain
If every chance to end this strife
Is lying as if I could be tamed
