Have you heard the story about the boy who made a rocket?
He had all the things he needed, the friends and all the science
Gathered all his homies up to form a strong alliance
They're cool and noble men, honest with hearts of lions
They worked together, piece-by-piece, to finish the project
Made it all for them, though, goodbye, he kissed his loved ones
And they climbed aboard it and strapped in...
Born to go where no one's gone before...

Will they know....
How far can we really go?
How far can we really go?
How do we know?
I'd surely like to know...
How far can we really go?

How far can we really go?
How far can we really go?
How do we know?
I'd surely like to know...
How far can we really go?
