There's a new day on the horizon, there's a rising in the air

Somewhere somebody's trying to tell me they care
So I'm a lift my head to a new day, plant my feet on the ground

Look at life in a new way and what's going down

'Cause today's the day I'm gonna take things slow
Try and change my ways, forgive and let all that go
Tell the ones I love what they need to know
I'm gonna turn around, settle down and slow my roll

Mixing loneliness and whiskey, heartache and cocaine
Living life like a gypsy, lost and ashamed
So I'm a look to the Lord as my witness, rest my hat on a shelf

Trade these boots for forgiveness and find myself

'Cause today's the day I'm gonna take things slow
Try to change my ways forgive and let all that go
I tell the ones I love 'cause they need to know
I'm gonna turn around, settle down

And I can't believe 16 has long since past
'Cause I'm tired of running and never looking back
And I won't survive if I live this life this fast, oh, no

And today's the day I'm gonna take things slow
Change my ways, forgive and let all that go
Tell the ones I love what they need to know
I'm gonna turn around, settle down and slow my roll

Slow my roll, slow my roll
Slow my roll, slow my roll
Slow my roll, slow my roll
Slow my roll, slow my roll, yeah
