Out on your own
And loving every minute
The world won't give you anything
Except what you can put in it
And you'll find out the hard way
That it's a long long road back home
There's a way to reach you
To try to put things right
But you're so far gone now
In your eyes there is no light
But I can remember you
And how you used to laugh
At everything
So pull on your blue jeans
Hit the road one more time
You'll need the roots of your background
Living out another lie
Easy parting on the highway
If you lost the tricks
Got a lot more to learn
That I just wish

You search for love and freedom
Did you find what you were looking for
And if you ever need somebody
I've got an open door
My place is not to judge you
For friends don't ask for nothing more
So pull on your blue jeans
Hit the road one more time
You'll need the roots of your background
Living out another lie
Easy parting on the highway
If you lost the tricks
Got a lot more to learn
That I just wish
Easy parting on the highway
If you lost the tricks
Got a lot more to learn
It's a long long road back home
