You're a stranger to me

Then you give me your life

I toss it to one side

Still you're sweeter to me

When we lie on the shore

It's warm where you are

But my lips just don't burn

I feel so insecure

When you try to be kind

Could I ask for more

Looking at you now I know you only want to find me

Still I need a reason to leave the past behind me

Behind me

There ain't no easy way

To learn how to fly

I hope that I can kill

When I turn around you're there

Should I ask for more

I feel like sugar on the floor

I feel like sugar on the floor
