Spend all your days with your head in the clouds
You listen too close you don't hear a sound
All of this is harder than it ever appeared
Nothing in your way, no one's on your side
Nothing will change your one track mind
Everyone around has got so much they want to say

Thoughts of crashing down
And lashing out
Getting lost and swept away

Why should I try to be something I'm not?
You can count on one thing
I will never come around
Here is goodbye if you try to change my mind
You can count on one thing
I will never come around never come around
Never come around, never come around

A sleepless night staring at the stars
Wondering how close they really are
If you don't reach and try
You will leave life asking why
You got high and you can't come down
Look at me I never left the ground
Yeah I've got stains on my knees
While all your dreams blew away with the breeze

The cost of letting go
Is more than you know
At least that's what they say

Why should I try to be something I'm not?
You can count on one thing
I will never come around
Here is goodbye if you try to change my mind
I don't care what anyone thinks
I will never come around never come around
Never come around, never come around

It's the pretty pain I love
It's the reason that I bleed

And still the reason I am okay, alright
Okay, alright

Why should I try to be something I'm not?
You can count on one thing
I will never come around
Here is goodbye if you try to change my mind
I don't care what anyone thinks
I will never come around never come around
Never come around, never come around
