This place we call our home is in a state of anarchy Lead by the secret dictators of what's suppose to be democracy
We live in the land of fiction our eyes scolded from the truth
This causes tension and friction and they blame it on the youths

There's always something hidden There's always something closed
Secrets labelled forbidden
Somethings we can't expose

That's right it's time to fight back fight back for our rights
That's right it's time to fight back push our view back into the light
Cos we're concealed in darkness forever living in fear We try to ignore this madness but our voices they must hear.

There's always something hidden
There's always something closed
Secrets labelled forbidden
Somethings we can't expose

They are a lie, keep raising false alarms
