Got home from work, sat down, put on the TV
You called me up and I didn't know what to say
It's been some time since we hung at the record store
So much has changed since then, I've been through this before

I know I said I'd call you back
But time and energy is what I lack
Got home from work and just sat back
It slipped my mind, I meant to call you back

I said I'd call you back later on that day
You said you were in town only for a day
I really meant to call, but life got in the way
Please forgive me for the call I didn't make

I know I said I'd call you back
But time and energy is what I lack
Got home from work and just sat back
It slipped my mind, I meant to call you back

I said I'd call you back later on that day
You said you were in town only for a day
I really meant to call, but life got in the way
Please forgive me for the call I didn't make

"I'll stay in touch" it's what I meant to do
Why would I say it if I knew it wasn't true?
I really meant to call, but life got in the way
I really meant to call, but didn't know what to say
