Caught up in the history,
I wish it was new to me,
But a shadow behind me reminds me of where I used to be,
So I keep on running,
I keep looking for something, like something that I lost in a dream where I couldn't see.

And I opened my eyes and now I'm on the road,
And for the first time I see what i'm shown, I've found a way home, home.

What I was believing, yeah, it was something deceiving, but the time to move on came along to wake me from my dreaming...
And with everything that you told me, ohh, the truth is unfolding, yeah
And this road that I'm on, yeah, I've found it belongs to me.

And I opened my eyes and now I'm on the road,
And for the first time I see what I'm shown,

And it's coming alive and into its own,
Of the first time I feel right, I have found a way home.

Home, something's changed I don't feel the way I did before,
Ohh, any day could be the one that's different from before,
Yeah, I'm sure. Now I'm sure.

And I opened my eyes and now I'm on the road,
And for the first time I see what I'm shown,
And it's coming alive and into its own,
Of the first time I feel like I have found a way home.

A way home, a way home.
