YOUR MERCY

Kim Hill, Rita Springer and Jamie Kenney

there's a clearing in the distance
From my circumstance
And the scales on my eyes fall away
I've been brought to my knees in humble brokenness
Searching for the right words to say
I don't deserve the presence of my King
But I bow my head and sing
Oh I bow my head and sing

I don't understand Your mercy
I'm still amazed by Your grace
I'm surrounded by forgiveness and love

How I long to see Your face

I have found a place of freedom
In Your arms of love
In the refuge of Your gentle hand
I'm aware of all these walls that keep me far from You
But know that You embrace who I am
God of all the earth and skies above
I come to you and say
On bended knees I'll say

Healing pours like rain
Forgiveness floods my soul
Fragrance of Your love, cover me
