"A While"

Once i had a dream,
and then i walked a way,
a way i was looking for,
then i had to quit because i got afraid.

I got afraid of a door,
i made a wish heaven leaked.
I'd been getting near and i hope to always search and maybe find a way.

Now i stick around
on a strange intense day, i seem resigned to my fate,
i spend my waking hours mired in my dreams

I fell asleep in some lips, then i was falling apart like in a lost film

but then i woke with a start keep on finding a way.

You're a leaf and your veins are birds like rivers in silence they ring in me.
Don't worry if you leave, i won't be wrapped around your stem but will you walk a while more ?

There's children singing.
The sun is shining
around your fortress,
the sun is shining
will you walk a while more ?
will you walk a while more ?
