lost and troubled minds they can never bring sunshine they only bring daylight a romance out of time if i try to save your life could you please try and save mine put your hand in mine i believe in you your body and your mind don't apologise

don't let it end too soon no honeymoon, more lies the sense in everything has gone away i miss you every second of the day and for a while i thought i heard you sing and took the blame for everything we did don't you remember what i told you? you take a tiny little seed you plant it in the garden and it's so fragile but if you get a ray of sunshine and a tiny bit of rain comes a lot of tender loving care it grows stronge like our love
