oh boy
you take me by suprise again take me by the hand and then lead me down the streets of new york on a wilful afternoon when i thought love could choose i heard your song playing on the radio i'm somewhere i don't want to be the city's moving over me but i think i'm going to stay please don't be alarmed i'm at the start of something i walked up the grand to our hotel and bought a round of perfect tens and imagined you were there and you, you became a man who explained - if this wasn't love how could it have been anything else

please don't be alarmed

i want to ask you everything

we stayed and smoked another cigarette now if smoke lingers i won't forget and i tried to say i'm sorry that you you're worth more than i could ever be but i looked up and you had disappeared and left you crying to the rain

please don't be alarmed
