After all this time, I still want you
Everyday I find I still want you
Oh, no one's given me what you've given me
You know me better than I know myself
Like you know everything I've ever felt
Oh, the more I see of life, the more I realize
How much I still want you.

There were times I could have lost my way
Could've found myself with someone else
I'm not above temptation, I'm only human
But that's how I know, I still want you.

Some say it's over when you know too much
I say forever won't be long enough
With you holding onto me, my stability
A love I can't replace.

It took time, but I learned from my mistakes (could've found myself) could've found myself with someone else
I'm not above temptation, I'm only human
But that's how I know, I know it's true

After all these years I still want you.

Some people never see (never see)
What it is they really need til they wake up alone
(til they wake up alone)
But when I look at you and me
I don't want for anything, I know where I belong
(I know where I belong, I know where I belong)
But more than anything I still want you.

No matter where I go or what I do
I still want you.

There were times I could've lost my way (could've lost my way) could've found myself with someone else
I'm not above temptation, I'm only human
That's how I know, I know it's true
After all these years, oh.

That's how I know, more than anything
I still want you
I still want you
I still want you
I still want you.
