I'm back in the church... night has taken over I'm breathing hard... in the dark Through the hole in the floor, I hear the winds from the catacomb
Here it comes, out of the hole, a magnificent light Blinding the entire church Contorted faces and bodies too, powerful entity floating high above
I was no more scared of dying, but I was terrified of knowing the truth
I don't want to, but I have to... I have to know who you are
"you have entered where no human must go
You have seen the lie... the lie about the cross" I am many... we are one, the highest You'll never know why we kept him here
The one who did not die on the cross Could it be we kept him away from god... so that he may never walk Never walk the earth again? "
"or could it be that we've kept him... safe from you So you may never try to do again what... you did back then?
I guess it all depends on who you are I guess it all depends on who you really are"
"god and satan are just puppets on our strings

Creating conflicts in your little human minds, keeping us alive
It doesn't matter who or what you think we are It only matters that you know we are God, the devil, good and evil, we're all that and so much more"
"live this life the best you can, and leave the rest to us"
But I can't... I won't be one that feeds an unknown god Show to mankind that you really exist
And then explain to us the meaning of chaos Give us reason to persist, to go on living through this hell on earth
All I want is peace of mind from all you non existing gods
I bet that not even you will ever understand the truth

Cause you are nothing but a puppet on even higher strings
Your unholy eyes, I wanna sew them shut Oh you meaningless little god, and so I choose death over you
Up up the grey cold stairs, up into the tower of hell
With a rope in my hand, I'm searching for the unknown land
Father of the universe, here I come.. this place is terrible
