"Uncle Son"

He was just a workin' man
Simple rules and simple plans
Fancy words, he didn't understand
He loved with his heart
He worked with his hands

Liberals dream of equal rights
Conservatives live in a world gone by Socialists preach of a promised land
But old Uncle Son was an ordinary man

Bless you Uncle Son
They won't forget you when the revolution comes

Unionists tell you when to strike
Generals tell you when to fight
Preachers teach you wrong from right
They'll feed you when you're born
And use you all your life

Bless you Uncle Son
They won't forget you when the revolution comes
