It would take all day to tell You how I need You
It was hard but now I'm learning how to trust You
And to know You more than just my friend
'Cause friendship sometimes end

It would take all day to show You how I miss You
When my own desires they steal my heart from You
And hurt You, but still You say there's room
That You want me close to You, it's amazing

So incredible to me
How You look past where I am and see where I will be
Though millions call Your name
You still make time for me, that's incredible to me
That's incredible to me

It would take all day to tell You how I thank You
For all those times in my life You've come through
I appreciate You, no goodness of my own
How You forget my wrong, it's amazing

So incredible to me
How You look past where I am and see where I will be
Though millions call Your name
You still make time for me, that's incredible to me

So incredible to me
How birds that fly will testify, You will supply our needs
Although my life may change
Your promises You keep, that's incredible to me
To me, to me, to me

If it takes all day to tell You I love You
This heart that beats, each fragile piece I give You
It's for You, before I knew my name
Our love would be arranged, it's amazing

So incredible to me
How You look past where I am and see where I will be
Though millions call Your name
You still make time for me, that's incredible to me

So incredible to me
How birds that fly will testify, You will supply our needs
Although my life may change
Your promises You keep, that's incredible to me
That's incredible to me, that's incredible to me
