Reaching all the trials
Thinking places and the smiles
That raised us to believe
We would all end up the same
As a number, not a name
Surrounded but alone

And words will fade and lose their place
In the pages that pass away
And city lights will burn tonight
To bring us home
Bring us home

We could break the pattern
Strike the match and light the lanterns
A signal to the world
Set them on the highest tail
Show them love's in fashion still
To light their way back home

And words will fade and lose their place
In the pages that pass away
And city lights will burn tonight
To bring us home
Bring us home

Heads are down and hands are folded
Through each word, these hearts are molded
We choose love and we choose feeling
We choose hope and life with meaning

Heads are down and hands are folded
Through each word, these hearts are molded
We choose love and we choose feeling
We choose hope and life with meaning

And words will fade and lose their place
In the pages
And city lights will burn tonight
To bring us home
to bring us home

City lights will burn tonight
To bring us home
To bring us home
