I looked up to you
You were a hero in my eyes
You had it all so figured out Sorted through all of the lies

I worked so much to let you know
What made you think
That it's ok to throw your life away
What made you think
that it's ok to throw your life away

Nothings ever hurt so much Watching you give into this It's never all that you've been through But for everything you will miss I worked so much to let you fall It's not too late take it in

What made you think
that it's ok to throw your life away

What made you think
that it's ok to throw your life away
throw your life away

What made you think
that it's ok to throw your life away
throw your life away
