It would be so easy just to hold onto this feeling that elopes
Misery with agony but I'll hold onto hope
In their words they carry hurts buried in myself
In disarray the easy way could be take me somewhere else
The sun still shines behind the clouds

There must be more than this
There must be more than your first kiss
To your last wish
To the things that we can't change about it

I turn on my radio and every single song I know
Is so devoid of meaning Inside my head I'm screaming for a star that I can reach to
Brothers, sisters I beseech you
Don't become these songs that numb the soul
The sun still shines behind the clouds

There must be more than this
There must be more than your

Situations, circumstances
Play it forward, fast advances
I know, I know, I know
