Sometimes it's hard to remember you lied
And memory fades as the years pass you by
Sometimes the truth's got up, lay down and died
But I can't forget all the tears that I cried

Sometimes I try to pretend it's alright
The promises I make last nearly all night
Still in the morning I run and I hide
'cos I can't forget all the tears that I cried

But I'll get fooled like the last time
Oh how these eyes are sore
They'll cry again just like before

Lonely the track I decided to take
Lost from the start all the friendships I make Single fares only the trails only I ride
'cos I can't forget all the tears that I cried

Too much reminiscing is bad for the soul
It screws up your life and it makes you feel old
Don't want to remember what I can't abide
'cos I can't forget all the tears that I cried

But I'll get fooled like the last time
Oh how these eyes are sore
They'll cry again just like before

I find it so hard just to make up my mind
You've all been so patient and all been so kind
But when it comes to emotions my outbursts are tied
'cos I can't forget all the tears that I cried

But I'll get fooled like the last time
Oh how these eyes are sore
They'll cry again just like before

'cos I can't forget all the tears
I can't forget all the tears
I can't forget all the tears
I can't forget all the tears
I can't forget all the tears
