[chorus]

Wake. Sleep. Turn and Repeat again
It's time to change your life.
The weeks are dead, you kill for the weekend.
It's time to stand and fight.

There must be more to this life you say
Than working for the man every night and day
Money can buy you your fancy cars
But it won't make the person you are

Before you know it's Monday again
The days are long the nights never end
What happened to your hopes and dreams?
You sold them for a new pair of jeans

Take a chance I promise you that you might even smile
Take a chance I promise you that you might even smile...

Friday night you hide your tears
Drink away the rest of the years
Does your car hold you at night?
I'd rather starve than live a lie.
