Once I loved you darlin', and it thrilled me through and through
I must admit I wanted only you Your kisses left me breathless when you said we'd never part Your lips are sweet as honey, but there's poison in your heart

The way that you two-timed me is a sin and it's a shame
You even said you'd like to change my name You vowed that you'd be faithful, but you lied right from the start
Your lips are sweet as honey, but there's poison in your
heart

Maybe I'll find that faded kind that will let me love again and I'll forget my fickle dreams of you It's just to bad we've never had, an even-steven start
heart
