My drifting heart is looking for the door
The voice which I can't voice out, repeats "why?"

Yesterday, these entwined fingers that don't separate and the sweet dreams--even now I continue to believe in them

Save me From this maze, from this darkness that is attached to me Hurry out and return my call Show me just one more time Because I want to recover, start looking for the real me, who was lost

You're searching for the key to my locked heart
I certainly feel a sign of you

Will this wish reach the other side of the wall?
If the light is visible, it will come out

Save me If you can hear me, reach out your hands & investigate this conflict
Show me just once more Make me remember the existing hope that began to lose the brilliance of that day

Save me from this maze
I won't give up yet
I want to smile again like my [old] self Show you my smile during those days I'm sure that the brilliance of that day will reach where you are
