"Too Late"

We've overlooked our talking stage
You are so distant, so cold and strange
It seems we've gone wrong all along
No brightness in your eyes, what's going on

It's too late to mend these broken hearts
It's too late to say who's the one to blame

You wonder how, I wonder why
All our precious moments have turned into ice
We are falling apart and words just don't come
We are as opposite as the moon and the sun

It's too late to mend these broken hearts
It's too late to say who's the one to blame
Don't say to me that you have changed
'Cause I do believe that you're still the same
It seems we've gone wrong all along
We'd better ask ourselves what's going on

It's too late to mend these broken hearts
It's too late to say who's the one to blame

It's too late to mend these broken hearts
(Cause they've been bleeding from the very start)
It's too late to say who's the one to blame
(Cause we've been playing two different games)
