

Kottonmouth Kings "New Destination"

Visit "New Destination" on MotoLyrics.com where you gonna go when you can't get high now who you gonna call when you feel so low where you gonna turn for some inspiration new destinations is where we should go

Confused in life in the middle of the night I'm sittin' up with my pipe like my candles I'll burn thinkin' about my baby the one that really loved me and the time we spent together callin each other honey the separation hurts i learned from my loneliness cryin to myself thinkin about the last kiss but things got funny we had two different lives so much time apart and not enough by her side being without my girl yo im feelin kinda empty the joy that you've given me can't compare to anybody moments we shared they was like no other the bond that we have built it slowly became a cover but that's how it goes five years down the road i was away doin shows and let my love up in the cold i can't ever forget what had happened now its gone i wanna give you props and shout you out in my song

where you gonna go when you can't get high now
who you gonna call when you feel so low
where you gonna turn for some inspiration
new destinations is where we should go

I can't believe i'm alive survivin in the world but will i live till 25 i'd bet the farm read my palms when you look in these eyes theres no room inside for crooked scams or evil plans not wishin harm I offer out my hand to any man and when a man extends his hand I offer blessings on his land upon completion of passage earning respect for your word build on a strong foundation straight conserve barely splurge ya gotta plan for the future and take care of yourself to live a long happy life you never needed no wealth just be stealth with what your givin make decisions to invest envision in your mind then hit the kind and be blessed erase the stress (let it go) simply cut that shit you be ruining your day over the same bullshit and last surpass your past and go don't let your fate be controlled you should know reach for your goals and that the rest will be gold so?

where you gonna go when you can't get high now
who you gonna call when you feel so low
where you gonna turn for some inspiration
new destinations is where we should go

my soul radiates a light that transcends my high i digest the universe right though my third eye in touch with my expand it opens me wide these spirits connect transform and collide some stay in touch while others divide some flow and dive and hang around for the ride some have that day until one has died shedding your skin born again from inside so follow the light into a new life take a deep breath relax and open your eyes reality is yours its what you decide take a deep breath and open your eyes

Baby listen i forgot to tell you something my life's been a mess without Ami & Dustin I been depressed popped a couple of biscuits been staying out all night gettin fucked up what is this all i feel is the ghost from your presence thinking about the times we spent together im fucking over it its too hard reminiscing to the past we had way too much love and thats a fact it makes me sad but i gots to move on so i packed up my stuff grabbed my bong and wrote a song wondering where my next destination's gonna take me and how long i got love for ami but now she's gone Visit Kottonmouth Kings page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.