The young man stepped into the hall of mirrors
Where he discovered a reflection of himself Even the greatest stars discover themselves in the
looking glass
Even the greatest stars discover themselves in the
looking glass
Sometimes he saw his real face
And sometimes a stranger at his place Even the greatest stars find their face in the looking glass
Even the greatest stars find their face in the looking
glass
He fell in love with the image of himself
And suddenly the picture was distorted Even the greatest stars dislike themselves in the
looking glass
Even the greatest stars dislike themselves in the
looking glass
He made up the person he wanted to be
And changed into a new personality Even the greatest stars change themselves in the
looking glass
Even the greatest stars change themselves in the
looking glass
The artist is living in the mirror
With the echoes of himself Even the greatest stars live their lives in the looking
glass
Even the greatest stars live their lives in the looking
glass
Even the greatest stars fix their face in the looking
glass
Even the greatest stars fix their face in the looking
glass
Even the greatest stars live their lives in the looking
glass
Even the greatest stars live their lives in the looking glass
