Living your life in endless frustration
Everyday you get nervous and teased
You think about your youth with sex and pleasure
Now the times have changed the blood you bleed

Living a destructed life just before you die
Take what you don't need to betray
Your end is nearer than you think you know
You can't survive, take their lives
Don't wait another day, take their lives

Normal man of the civilization
Is that what you wanted to be?
You know the deadly force in your veins
And tonight you set the power free

Living a destructed life just before you die
Take what you don't need to betray
Your end is nearer than you think you know
You can't survive, take their lives
Don't wait another day, take their lives
Take their lives

Take them into the cellar, be sure that they can't scream
They have taken all the best years of your life
You don't feel no mercy as you locked them on the chains
You don't care about your children's cries that's the life

Now there ain't no turning back the axe shines in your hand
Cut the first limb with laughing eyes Crimes complete and you will pay, they'll hunt you to the ground
Days are counted and now you have to run

Take their lives, take their lives
