After death's taken you from life
You have come to me in the night
The aura of an ancient beauty shining through

Like a Goddess of fallen grace
I'm longing for your soul's embrace
And all that life has lost I've found in you

The spirit is willing the flesh is weak
Just like a thousand suns it shines on me
The spirit's willing the flesh is weak
For now I'm seeing more than the eye can see

So I wait as I watch the stars
I feel you're near but you're yet too far
Too heal me from the flames that penetrate my mind

I could swear that I've felt your touch
Your magic presence I need so much
Becomes reality only at night

The spirit's willing the flesh is weak
Just like a thousand suns it shines on me
The spirit's willing the flesh is weak
For now I'm seeing more than the eye can see

As I watch you disappear in silence
Was it really true or just a dream?
As morning drags me back to life
And swallowed everything
Illusion killed the angel without wings

As I watch you disappear in silence
Was it really true or just a dream?
As morning drags me back to life
And swallowed everything
Illusion killed the angel without wings

The spirit's willing the flesh is weak
Just like a thousand suns it shines on me
The spirit's willing the flesh is weak
For now I'm seeing more than the eye can see

More than the eye can see
More than the eye can see
