The sun is filled with ice and gives no warmth at all
The sky was never blue, the stars are raindrops
Searching for a place to fall and I never cared for you

I know, you won't believe these things, I tell you
No you won't believe, your heart has been forewarned
All men will lie to you, your mind cannot conceive

Now all depends on what I say to you and on your doubting me
So I've prepared these statements far from truth
maybe disbelief
The sun is filled with ice

The sun is filled with ice and I never cared for you
And I never cared for you
