(Kris Kristofferson)

Darling the seasons are changin'
See now the leaves how they die
Love needs no reason for endin'
Come kiss your baby goodbye.

Darling the last time you lied was it really the last time
Have all the tears that you've cried simply dried up and gone.
All in the world you can hurt anymore is my feeling
Whatever love ever was never lasted too long.

Maybe the best of our life was a beautiful dream babe
That conscience was destined to crumble like castles
of sand
All there is left of our love is a little girl's laughter
Let her keep making believin' as long as she can

Now and again I still hear some old song I don't want to
Is it the same over there where you found new friend
Sometimes at night I still wake up and feel something missin'
Maybe I'll never believe in forever again.

Darling, the seasons are changin'
See now the leaves how they die
Love needs no reason for endin'
Come kiss your baby goodbye...
