[KRS-One]

Word..

Sonja.. you know you saw her in the movie

And my man Saul, he's like THIS!

[Saul Williams] * singing *

There is no ocean like the one, within

Look to the moon rise with the tides, and swim

(repeat 4X)

[KRS-One] * speaking while Saul sings *

Uh-huh, yeah, yeah

KRS-One, coming through.. like this Uh-huh, do it, do it like that, like that

Uh, uh-huh

[Saul Williams] * sings first two lines *

Saul the road to Damascus, come follow me

The serpent swallow the moon, but it won't, swallow me

(Yeah, speak the word!)

Intellect is like a major city

Laden with concrete, metal

Advanced modes of transportation

Shining buildings, and fenced in parks

Spirit is the mountain's forest wilderness and vast countryside that surrounds it

Too many people live in the city

Struggling day to day for mere existence

Most have forgotten how to live off the land

They only experience nature on class trips and short-term vacations

For those that live in the country

Cities are like amusement parks with high prices and temporal satisfaction

At the end of the day, they are tired and ready to go home, and relieve their ringing ears

[Saul Williams] * singing *

There is no ocean like the one, within

Look to the moon rise with the tides, and swim

(repeat 2X)

[KRS-One]
Uh-huh, speak the word
Hyper-accelerated meditations talk
The reversal of this word dispersal is thought
There is no difference between thought and talk like the blackboard chalk and homicide chalk they both give outlines
One is designed to outline the mind
The other outlines the body after a crime
Could it be that these two chinks are connected
