Why must you be always complaining
You can do something else other throwing shits,
It's easy to listening bands with a lyer's smile
With the exception of the people here have an opinion
But it could be a kind of personal,
Introspective thoughts
Never approach them with false places
But you can't forget to criticise 'em in every way
I choose my silence you choose a lie
Your best habit's transforming other choices
From brave well to discontinued failures
So continue to oppress 'em,
The aware envies with a lightning hate,
I say goodbye I respect your frustrations,
But don't tell me
