My path into the shadows
It seemed so well defined
A labyrinth of darkness
With no joy for me to find

The path that leads to you
Is so hard for me to find
And with every step I take
I hope the gods are kind

You took my doubts, you took my fears
You led me through this lake of tears
So close we are, but still apart
Not in mine, but in your heart

Your warm and schizophrenic heart
Still does not beat for me alone
As it still bears remembrance
Of feelings that I think are gone

Every day I hope and pray
For your love and sense
That you will come into my arms
And give our love a chance

You took my doubts, you took my fears
You led me through this lake of tears
So close we are, but still apart
Not in mine, but in your heart

Is there someone who can lead me
Out of this fate and to the light
Is there someone who can guide me
Through the lake I cried

You took my doubts, you took my fears
You led me through this lake of tears
So close we are, but still apart
Not in mine, but in your heart
