When the sun drops behind the Mountains
Never to rise again
When comes the Death of the starlit fountains
Never to shine again
Then the gardens show withered flowers
Never to bloom again
And the crops will enjoy their last harvest
Never to go again

Where love is gone
It has begun
The dark clouds from above
He came to claim his crown

Hear the weeping of a thousand widows
In this time of war
Where powermongers expand their wealth
Fall victim to the evil's lore
Hear the mourners come and pray
To bury their beloved
Who lost their lives in senseless wars

Where love is gone
It has begun
The dark clouds from above
He came to claim his crown

It's not the evil from down below
Never to rise again
Which creeps and lurks under the snow
Never to shine again
It's not of Satan's will we fall
Never to bloom again
It's due to the evil in us all
Never to go again

Where love is gone
It has begun
The dark clouds from above
He came to claim his crown

In our time where love is gone

The harvest of souls it has begun
