It can not be
I still cant understand why did you had to fail completely destroy what little was in me after so much love
after so many tears and smiles
you didnt care about all that about anything
you have left me without your company you took all my joy
all thats left is an empty heart I swear that the cold is killing me night after night I try to forget and I promise myself to start again its not so easy to love again

One day at a time
I will have to learn that things that look like they are yours they are that love can never be separated from pain
I will understand
at least the reason that lead you to destroy my perfect world

after so many tears and smiles
you have left me without your company
you took all my joy

and I promise myself to start again

I will have to learn that things that look like they are yours, are
that love can never be separated from pain
