It's too late, the sky's performing we must have missed our warning sign that day there's so much that we've no longer got as my eyes move down across your face i remember songs that brought us in the corner of your room you held too close for both of us, till nothing touched could move

i know, it doesn't silence anyone so what could anyone say there's been but two meanings in our lives what you want and what i can't hide the fallen cry, the empty driveway lights don't take me

home you held too close for both of us till nothing said was known because i know a place i'm going to, like nowhere that you've been goodnight, goodnight

you held too close for both of us till nothing said was known i remeber songs that brought us in the corner of your
you held too close for both of us till nothing said was

the time is over goodnight leaving us the way i thought it might cause i know a place i'm going to like nowhere that you've been
goodnight, goodnight
