Do you think he's worth it
To try and act so perfect
Someone who doesn't even care
You were always honest
You never broke your promise
The situation is unfair

It's a quarter to eight
And you're baby is late
Come party with me
And if he tries to explain
Will you let him remain
A part of your life

Does he really need you?
And did he really please you?
Does it really matter now?
Does he really need you?
And did he really please you?
Does it really matter now?

If he really loves you
He'll put no one above you
Now tell me is this right or wrong
Playing with the best
And eating with the rest
His game has gone on much too long

It's a quarter to eight
And you're baby is late
Come party with me
And if he tries to explain
Will you let him remain
A part of your life

Does he really need you?
And did he really please you?
Does it really matter now?
Does he really need you?
And did he really please you?
Does it really matter now?
