It's just physical, I know
But she reminds me of you
Strictly intellectual, I know
But her thoughts remind me of you
You were the missing part now I have to replace you
With different people and I do it bit by bit
You were the missing part that came to change
What I value and what I consider as the best

We did it for love and we did it cause we had to
Did it cause there never really wasn't any options
To play with you, and you, and you
If I had the chance to start all over again
I would do this again and again with you

This ain't moving on, I know
But who decide that it has to be so
I could wait for you all my life
It would be no waste or sacrifice
I'd rather die alone the letting go
I'd rather die alone the letting go

We did it for love and we did it cause we had to
Did it cause there never really wasn't any options
To play with you, and you, and you
If I had the chance to start all over again
I would do this again and again with you

Turn the other cheek and the other cheek
Turn the other cheek and the other cheek
Turn the other cheek and the other cheek
Turn the other cheek and the other cheek
