"The Truth"

I thought I could turn it around before you knew Before I lost all I had
I thought I could carry the lie and hold you too
But I thought wrong, you slipped right through

The truth ain't something you can just out run
The truth ain't something you can just out run

I look into your eyes and I see shattered glass
And the faith you had in me, gone like that I gave up the keys to what was yours and mine
And I crashed this sweet love of mine, of mine

Cause truth ain't something you can just out run
Yeah, truth ain't something you can just out run
No, truth ain't something you can just out run
Oh I'm buried alive in the things I've done

I'm crawling out of my grave
And looking at you with one eye open I'm afraid there's nothing left here that ain't been broken

The truth ain't something you can just out run (truth ain't)
No, truth ain't something you can just out run, run, run, run

Truth ain't, the truth ain't
Something you can just out run
Truth ain't, the truth ain't
Something you can just out run (just out run)
The truth ain't, the truth ain't
Something you can just out run (just out run)
Truth ain't, the truth ain't
Something you can just out run
